COOLIDGE CHIEF G. O. P. LINCOLN DINNER SPEAKER

Address Last Night, President Promises Immediate Prosecution of Oil Land Cases—Asks Mellon Bill Support

FIRST ADDRESSS OUT OF WASHINGTON SINCE PRESIDENT

Associated Press

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—President Coolidge, speaking here last night before the National Republican Club, promised immediate and unshrinking prosecution of the oil land lease cases, appealed for national and bi-partisan support for the Mellon bill, called for assistance for agriculture from all resources of the country, and defended the sale of arms to Mexico.

The chief executive also reiterated his opposition to soldier bonus, legislation, declared there was some promise of a European settlement, and asserted the United States stood ready to join with other nations in further limiting armament whenever there appears to be reasonable prospect of agreement.

The address, which was made at the Lincoln Birthday dinner of the club, was the first Mr. Coolidge has made outside of Washington since he became President. In many respects it was an elaboration of his message to congress.

The president devoted much attention to taxation and agriculture, but in concluding turned to the sensation of the present time—the oil land lease investigation.

"Lately there have been most startling revelations concerning the leasing of government oil lands," he said. "At the revelation of greed making its subtle approaches to public officers, of the prostitution of high place to personal profit, we are filled with scorn and indignation. We have a deep sense of humiliation at such gross betrayal of trust and we lament the undermining of public confidence in official integrity. But we can not rest with righteous wrath; still less can we permit ourselves to give way to cynicism.

Promises Full Prosecution

"We propose to follow the clear, open path of justice. There will be immediate, adequate, unshrinking prosecution, criminal and civil, to punish the guilty and to protect every national interest. In this effort there will be no politics, no partisanship. It will be speedy. It will be just. I am a Republican, but I can not on that account shield any one because he is a Republican. I am a Republican, but I can not on that account prosecute any one because he is a democrat.

"I want no hue and cry, no mingling of innocent and guilty in unthinking condemnation, no confusion of mere questions of law with questions of fraud and corruption. It is at such a time that the qualities of our citizenry is tested—unrelenting toward evil, fair-minded and intent upon the requirements of due process, the shield of the innocent and the safeguard of society itself. I ask the suport of our people as chief magistrate intent on the coforcement of our laws without fear or favor, no matter who is hurt or what the consequences."

Starting with the declaration that the "National unity for which Lincoln laid the foundation requires perpetual adjustment for its maintenance" Mr. Coolidge asserted the observance of this principle makes necessary that much attention now should be given to agriculture.

It is obvious, the president said, that there is something radically wrong when agriculture is found in its present state of depression when manufacturing, transportation and commerce are on a whole in a remarkable state of prosperity." He analyzed the difficulty as due to a greater increase in production than in the power of distribution and consumption and added that because of this the great food staples were not selling on a parity with the products of industry. The farmer, he asserted, "is not receiving his share."

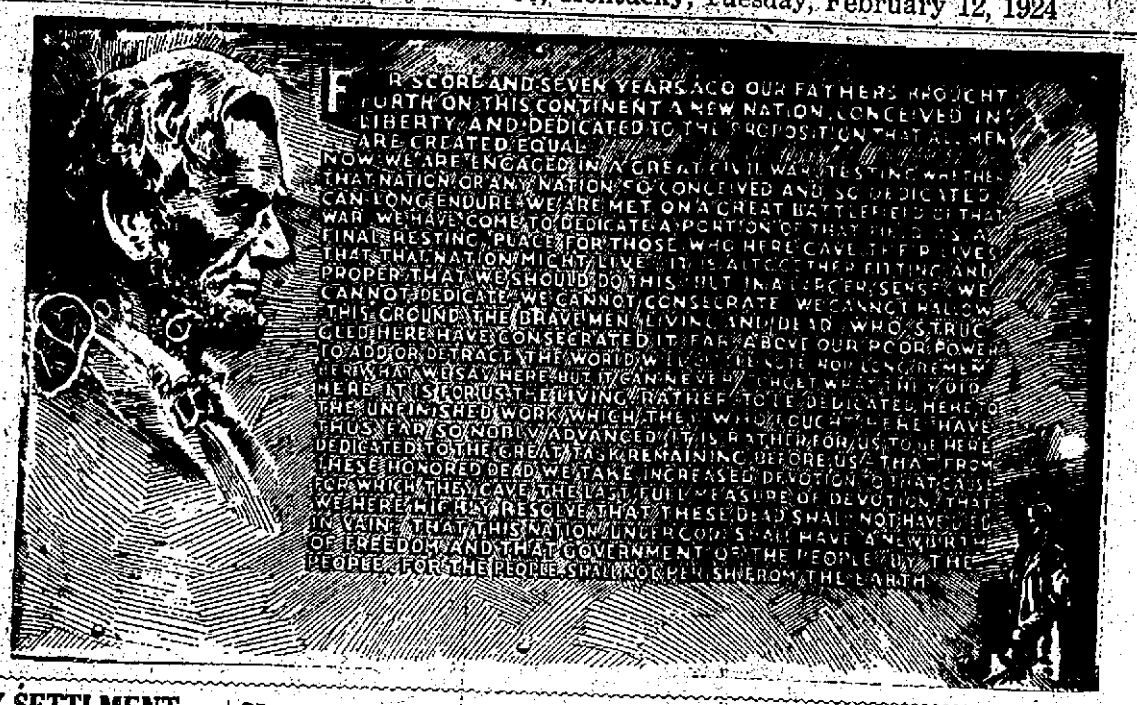
Discusses Tax Reduction

Turning to taxes, as one of the contributing causes to the agricultural depression, Mr. Coolidge traced the steps taken to decrease and put in operation a national debt through refunding and refunding of domestic securities through the operation of a sinking fund by making "every reasonable effort to secure the liquidation of our international debts." These steps he said had the result of permitting a decrease in taxes and the Mellon plan was evolved, he said.

The provisions of this plan, now embodied in a bill before congress, Mr. Coolidge asserted, "are non-partisan, well though out and sound." He endorsed the proposal to reduce surtaxes to a maximum of 25 per cent, "not that small incomes may be required to pay more and large incomes be required to pay less but that more revenue may be secured from large incomes and taxes on small incomes may be reduced." He was opposed, he said, "to material alteration and compromise," because he wished to give all the people all the relief" which the bill proposes.

"I stand on the simple proposition that the country is entitled to all the relief from the burden of taxation which it is possible to give," he continued. "The proposed measure gives such relief. Other measures which have been brought forward do not meet this requirement. You have heard of the Garner plan. Brought forward to have something different, it purported to relieve the greatest number of taxpayers. It gave not the slightest heed to the indirect effect of high taxes, or to the approaching drying up of the source of revenue and the consequent failure of the progressive income tax or to the destruction of business initiative. It is political in theory."

Summing up his opposition to the bonus, he said, "it would mean the indefinite postponement of any tax reduction, another increase in the cost of living, more drying up of the sources of credit and a probable raising of the rates of interest all of which would result in inflation and higher prices, with the grave danger of ultimate disaster to our economic system."



FOURSCORE AND SEVEN YEARS AGO OUR FATHERS BROUGHT FORTH ON THIS CONTINENT A NEW NATION, CONCEIVED IN LIBERTY, AND DEDICATED TO THE PROPOSITION THAT ALL MEN ARE CREATED EQUAL.
NOW WE ARE ENGAGED IN A GREAT CIVIL WAR, TESTING WHETHER THAT NATION, OR ANY NATION SO CONCEIVED AND SO DEDICATED CAN LONG ENDURE. WE ARE MET ON A GREAT BATTLE-FIELD OF THAT
WAR. WE HAVE COME TO DEDICATE A PORTION OF THAT FIELD, AS A
FINAL RESTING PLACE FOR THOSE WHO HERE GAVE THEIR LIVES
THAT THAT NATION MIGHT LIVE. IT IS ALTOGETHER FITTING AND PROPER THAT WE SHOULD DO THIS. BUT IN A LARGER SENSE WE CANNOT DEDICATE, WE CANNOT CONSECRATE, WE CANNOT HALLOW
THIS GROUND. THE BRAVE MEN, LIVING AND DEAD, WHO STRUG-GLED HERE, HAVE CONSECRATED IT, FAR ABOVE OUR POOR POWER
TO ADD OR DETRACT. THE WORLD WILL LITTLE NOTE, NOR LONG REMEM-BER WHAT WE SAY HERE, BUT IT CAN NEVER FORGET WHAT THEY DID
HERE. IT IS FOR US THE LIVING, RATHER, TO BE DEDICATED HERE TO THE UNFINISHED WORK WHICH THEY WHO FOUGHT HERE HAVE
THUS FAR SO NOBLY ADVANCED. IT IS RATHER FOR US TO BE HERE
DEDICATED TO THE GREAT TASK REMAINING BEFORE US—THAT FROM THESE HONORED DEAD WE TAKE INCREASED DEVOTION TO THAT CAUSE
FOR WHICH THEY GAVE THE LAST FULL MEASURE OF DEVOTION—THAT WE HERE HIGHLY RESOLVE THAT THESE DEAD SHALL NOT HAVE DIED
IN VAIN—THAT THIS NATION, UNDER GOD, SHALL HAVE A NEW BIRTH
OF FREEDOM—AND THAT GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE, BY THE PEOPLE, FOR THE PEOPLE, SHALL NOT PERISH FROM THE EARTH.

LINCOLN PROGRAM FOR WOMAN'S CLUB

Girls of Nancy Hanks Department Directed by Mrs. Grannis Give Program

A beautiful Lincoln program was given before the Woman's club yesterday afternoon by the members of the Nancy Hanks department of Lincoln Memorial University. The program was arranged and conducted by Mrs. F. C. Grannis of the University, chairman of the Education section of the Woman's Club.

The meeting opened with the regular business session. A special feature of this was the report by Mrs. D. G. Hinks, club president, on the meeting of the board of directors of the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs which she attended in Lexington the last of January. Mrs. Hinks reviewed the meeting, telling briefly of the legislative measures discussed by the women, particularly those which commended or condemned. This board, she pointed out, represented 50,000 club women. Among the measures endorsed by the directors was the $75,000,000 bond issue, the bill prohibiting the marriage of children under sixteen, the bill for playgrounds the censorship of motion pictures, the stiffer control of narcotics and other measures dealing with public welfare. They opposed the Ripper Bill No. 35 and went on record as endorsing the present state Board of Health and the State Board of Charities and Corrections.

After this report, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Grannis who introduced each of the members of her program. The first was a vocal duet a new arrangement of "America" sung by Misses Otella Overton and Ada Alexander. A paper, "Abraham Lincoln," was read by Miss Madge Pollard. This paper appears elsewhere in this issue. Miss Otella Overton then sang two solos, "A Doe-skin Blanket" by Cadman and "Mighty Lak A Rose" by Nevin. Miss Ida Hilton gave a beautiful Lincoln reading, "A Visit in a Cabin." Miss Grace Shanley closed the program with a piano solo.

Mrs. Grannis took a few minutes then, to explain exactly the condition at Lincoln Memorial University now in regard to the sick students. Mrs. Hugh Allen moved that the club send resolutions to Dr. R. O. Matthews, president ow the University pledging their help and support in any way. This motion was unanimously adopted just before the club adjourned.

King Tut's Mummy Case, Opened Today, Finest Ever Found in Egypt

Associated Press

LUXOR, Egypt, Feb. 12.—The lid of Tut Ankhamen's sarcophagus was raised today. It is understood the body of the king was found within. When the lid was raised there was revealed the most splendid gilded mummy case ever found in Egypt. The mummy case bears an effigy in relief of the king wearing a sacred head dress like that of a Sphinx, decorated with a hawk's head and a serpent in pure gold set with lapis lazuli. A pathetic touch was given the effigy by a little crown of withered natural flowers set about the gold head dress.

Critics Acclaimed It—But World Has Forgotten

THE FORGOTTEN LINCOLN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Boxed up and gathering dust in an old storehouse in a South Side park stands a nearly forgotten statue of Abraham Lincoln. It is the work of one of American's most famous sculptors, Augustus Saint Gaudens.

Seventeen years ago, the monumental figure, a favorite with the master artist himself, was completed. A fund of $100,000 for its erection and maintenance had been provided years before in the will of John Crear.

Soon after it was cast, the statue was exhibited in New York and a few other cities. In 1915, it was sent to the World's Fair in San Francisco.

But since then, it has remained neglected.

As soon as a suitable site can be selected by the South Park commissioners, however, the statue will be brought out and mounted.

Such, at least, is the answer given periodic agitations for its exhibition.

It was completed shortly before Saint Gaudens' death. Critics consider it represents his mature development far more fully than the famous Lincoln in Lincoln Park.

COOLIDGE'S TRIBUTE TO LINCOLN

One of the most beautiful tributes of the year offered to Abraham Lincoln is the following by President Calvin Coolidge:

"Five score and ten years ago that living Providence which infinite repetition has made only the more a miracle sent into the world a new life, destined to save a nation. No star, no sage, foretold his coming. About his cradle all was poor and mean save only the source of all great men, the love of a wonderful woman. When she faded away in his tender years, from her deathbed in humble poverty she dowered her son with greatness.

"There can be no proper observance of a birthday which forgets the mother. Into his origin as into his life we long have looked and wondered. In wisdom great, but in humility greater; in justice strong, but in compassion stronger, he became a leader of men by being a follower of the truth. He overcame evil with good. His presence filled the nation. He broke the might of oppression. He restored a race to its birthright. His mortal frame has vanished, but his spirit increases with the increasing years, the richest legacy of the greatest century.

"Men show by what they worship what they are. It is no accident that before the great example of American manhood our people stand with respect and reverence. And in accordance with this sentiment our laws have provided for a formal recognition of the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, for in him is revealed our ideal, the hope of our country fulfilled."

HYDEN DOESN'T LIKE MUD

The following on the good roads question is from the Hyden Thousand sticks, published in Hyden where, if any where, people ought to know the disadvantages of mud:

At the best our roads are only poor excuses for highways. But in winter, especially during heavy rains, it is almost impossible to travel over them.

The road from Hazard to Hyden is almost impassible, and has been so for several weeks. This road as well as others in the county, is part of the way in the creek and the other part the creek is in the road, that the recent high water has ben an insurmountable obstacle to traffic.

As a result, the people of Hyden have been going a greater part of their time without their first-class mail. There have been weeks without a single newspaper in Hyden.

The events of the world are unknown to our people. For all we know Hiram Johnson and Henry Cabot Lodge may have indorsed the league of nations, Calvin Coolidge may have taken his hat off the ring for the presidential nomination, or Bryan may have thrown his support to Al Smith for the Democratic nomination. Our belles and swains not being able to hear from their dear ones are disconsolate.

There is considerable danger of our waking up some of these days and finding ourselves as far behind the times as Rip Van Winkle was after his long sleep.

There isn't any payday for laboring under a delusion.

We have prosperity, but not enough of it to go around.

If you don't know where they get bootleg—they get it in the neck.

Politics make strange bedfellows, and strange bed fellows.

Adventures of The Twins

A SPRINGTIME RIDDLE

Round as a teacup and lined with moss.

"Here's a springtime riddle for everybody to guess," said the Riddle Lady next day when she arrived in Riddle Town, having driven the whole way from her palace on the hill in her golden coach.

The Riddle Lady didn't like automobiles.

"That's nice," said Nancy politely. "Spring is the nicest time of year, so it must be a nice riddle."

"I can't be sure about that," answered the Riddle Lady, "because I wrote it in an awful—I mean a dreadful—or I should say, a great hurry. Company came just as I was starting it and stayed and stayed and stayed and I had to hurry it together in about five minutes. Listen now and I'll read it to you:

"Round as a teacup and lined with moss,
Woven of grass and bits of floss,
Padded with down from Mother Bird's wing.
Daddy helps to build it, while both of them sing.

"Hidden by boughs of a green spreading tree,
I can't see them, but they can see me,
Guarding the nursery they have made,
I wouldn't touch it! Why are they afraid.

"Three lovely eggs all speckled with brown,
But mostly of blue, 'twould be grand for a gown,
What can it be, this most singular thing,
Where Mother Bird lays all her eggs in the spring?

"In this round teacup old Mother Bird sits,
And time just go slowly for I don't s'pose she knits,
While Daddy goes hunting—he digs and he digs,
And brings her a breakfast of earthworms and bugs.

"And after a while when the birdies hatch out,
It's easy to see what the rest were about.
'Tis a cradle builded, the finest and best,
Though to see it you'd say 'twas a dicky-bird's ——"

"Nest!" shouted everybody with one voice.

"I knew it would be too easy," declared the Riddle Lady. "How am I ever going to divide the prize, I don't know."

"What is the prize?" asked Jack Horner.

"It's something everybody should take in the spring," said the Riddle Lady. "I made it myself. I boiled some sassafras and boneset herbs and catnip and sulphur and molasses all together and put it in a great big bottle. I have it! I'll give everybody a spoonful."

But mind you, by the time she got the cork out 'n' everything, there wasn't a soul in sight.

Wasn't that the queerest thing ever! After all their guessing, nobody wanted the prize.

THIS LITTLE WORLD

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—George F. Rabbit, hero of the novel of that name, wears many guises these days. Recently he appeared in Los Angeles wearing a walking stick and nose glasses and the name of a nationally known music critic. Charles D. Isaacson announced he was here to make music popular. Two New York newspapers and several worthy organizations had agreed that music was a good thing and ought to be boosted. All the Los Angeles Rabbitts, of which there are not a few, cheered lustily for Isaacson.

Ethel, a lioness, escaped from the Universal zoo during a fire which burned up one of the movie city's sets. The sight of the first farmer she met so frightened Ethel that she fled for refuge to her cage. Alarmed by stories of prenatal influence, the animal men at Universal are wondering what effect the apparition of the goat-bearded farmer will have on Ethels unborn cub.

They have found an honest policeman in Los Angeles. Patrolman H. M. Wheatley turned down a reward of $2000 which Mme. Constance Balfour, concert singer offered for the return of her daughter Evelyn, who had strayed from home. The policeman who found the girl wandering the streets, said he could not even accept a cigar for doing his duty.

The celebrated goat gland experimenter came from San Francisco to continue his work. The funds that enable him to practice on those unable to pay come mostly from wealthy women.

"The effort to reconcile science and the Bible in Los Angeles failed signally when the Pacific Southwest Theological conference closed without modernists and fundamentalists agreeing upon anything except that the other side was an incorrigible collection of unreasonable, stupid and offensive disgraces to the cloth.

COAL MINERS DON'T WANT TO STRIKE

District President Declares Operators Are To Blame For Agitation

KNOXVILLE, Feb. 12.—"Coal miners of Tennessee and Kentucky do not want a strike. It is the wholesalers, and non-union operators who want to scare the people into paying a high price or coal by creating dissension in the fields."

This statement was made Saturday by William Turnblazer, president of District 19, United Mine Workers of America, upon his return from biennial convention of his organization held in Indianapolis.

Mr. Turnblazer refused to make any comment upon whether the same wage contract would be in force these fileds or what was the result of the conference held between operators of these fields or what was the result of the conference held between operators of the Kentucky-Tennessee Coal Operators' association and miners, held in Indianapolis. He said that the wage scale would not be determined until later, as the contract doesn't expire until March.

CITIZENS BANK NAMED AS STATE DEPOSITORY

The Citizens Bank is in receipt today of a letter from the state treasurer, E. B. Dishman, of Barbourville designating that bank as one of the state depositories. The letter was accompanied by a state check, of a very substantial size.

The local bank is very proud of the trust placed in them by the state. Last administration only nine banks out of the six hundred in the state were designated as state depositories. The number this year will probably not be much increased.

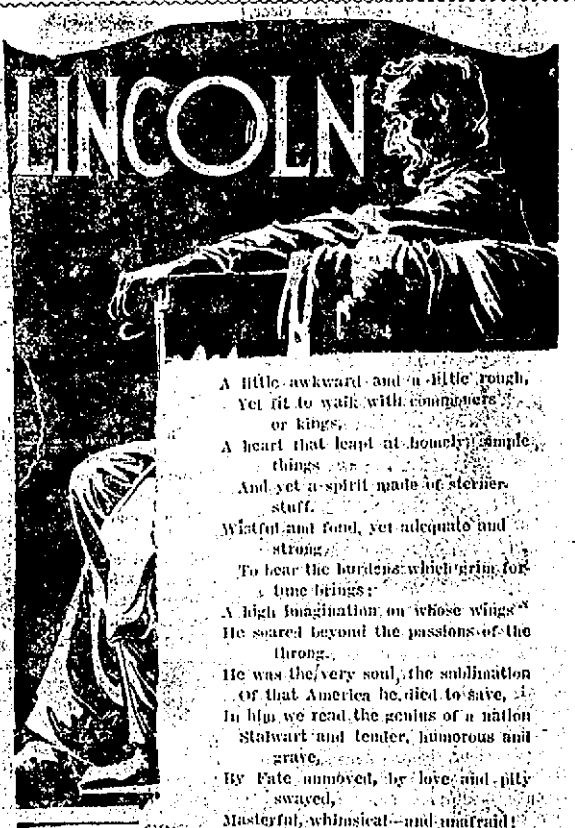
What Can You Do Toward Bringing Them Here?



A little awkward and a little rough,
Yet fit to walk with commoners or kings,
A heart that leapt at homely, simple things
And yet a spirit made of sterner stuff.
Wistful and fond, yet adequate and strong,
To bear the burdens which grim fortune brings;
A high imagination on whose wings
He soared beyond the passions of the throng.
He was the very soul, the sublimation
Of that America he died to save,
In him we read the genius of a nation
Stalwart and tender, humorous and grave,
By Fate unmoved, by love and pity swayed,
Masterful, whimsical—and unafraid!

Abraham Lincoln

He climbed the heights of holy sacrifice,
And love for shackled beings of the earth,
For lowly of the land that gave him birth,
To realms as boundless as the starry skies;
The altitudes of Freedom's paradise,
Wherein is brotherhood of human worth,
He scaled with impulse from his humble hearth,
And marked the path in which our glory lies.
As year by year he looms so far ahead
Of all our selfishness and shame and hate,
We cast aside our seeming sense of dread,
Lamenting footsteps hesitant and late,
And strive to keep the lonely path he trod
In leading this lost world to peace and God.

FOR WOMAN IS COLLECTOR

MRS. MABEL G. REINECKE

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—"Good heavens! You can't have a woman revenue collector. You've got to have a man, and a two-fisted, hard-boiled man at that."

So said the politicians last spring when it was suggested that the first deputy collector, Mrs. Mabel Gilmore Reinecke, young, pretty, brown-eyed and blonde-haired, be named successor to the collector who had just died. But she was appointed.

She proceeded then, in the district having the largest number of income tax payers in the United State, to increase tax collections more than 20 per cent for her first year. The increase is explainable partly by improved business conditions, but the figures show the new collector was not letting the evaders escape.

"When men come in, seeking to dodge payments, they find the system is against them," explains Mrs. Reinecke, and one notices that her blonde hair is almost a coppery red.

"The law is devised to get the money. It strengthens the hand of the collector, even if she is a woman.

"Very few men, though, have tried to take advantage of me because I am a woman. There is something about dealing with a woman which makes most men a little more considerate and reasonable. And it would surprise you to see how much respect most people have for the government."

Mrs. Reinecke learned politics when her father was state committeeman in the Bull Moose organization, and at secret meetings the wire-pullers would call for "Gilmore's daughter" to take shorthand notes. Then she worked for a year in the county tax assessor's office and has been active in war work, in the suffrage movement and in political drives.

"It is away ahead of housekeeping," she admits. "Every day brings thrills. And I like it."

"I have always plucked a thorn and planted a flower where ever I thought a flower would grow."

Beautiful Tribute to Lincoln Paid By Student of L. M. U.

Abraham Lincoln
(By Madge Skanley, L. M. U. Student).

Every great crisis in the life of the world or in the life of a country has had a so-called man of the hour. climbed the heights into the sunlight of higher air, men who interpet to those in the valleys the things that are seen from their vantage ground. These men who climb aloft, have vision and the ability to use these visions. They are the prophets, seers and teachers. They are the revealers of the life and spirit of their times. They are able not only to see, and to understand but in a measure to shape the age in which they live.

Such a man was Abraham Linclon. Born of common people, and like the babe of Bethlehem under rude shelter he rose with his towering personality above the common multitude to proclaim the eternal truth of fellowship. He cast upon the black man the white ray of hope, and led his divided people through clouds of dispair, to unity, peace and fellowship. He reunited these United States.

Lincoln was a teacher untaught by men. He knew comparatively nothing of the distinguished men of letters contemporary with himself, as Bryant, Poe, Hawthorne, Emerson, Lowell, Whittier, Holmes, Longfellow and Thoreau. It is certain that he was not familiar with them in the formative period of his life, and if he read them later he gave scant evidence of it in his utterance. These men of letters breathing the same literary atmosphere undoubtedly helped to mould, and influence one another. While Emerson was profiting by the personal acquaintance of Lowell, while the melancholy Hawthorne was basking in the sunny smiles of Holmes, Lincoln was sitting on a soap box in a cross roads grocery talking with carpenters and farmers and then returning to his rude home to read his Bible.

Lincoln's greatest power consisted in the charm of his personality. Yet we are told that this charm did not appeal in the ordinary way, to the eye or the ear. His voice was not melodious, rather shrill and piercing. His figure was not handsome, and the action of his unwield limbs awkward. His charm was of a different kind. It flowed from the rare depth and genuineness of his sympathetic feelings. Sympathy was the strongest element in his nature. There has never been a president, in such constant and active contact with the public opinion of the country. There has never been a president who while at the head of the government remained so near to the people. Beyond the circles of those who had long known him, the feeling steadily grew that the man in the White House was honest Abe Lincoln. Any citizen might approach him, with complaint, or in search of advice without danger of meeting a rebuff, from power, proud authority, this privilege was used by so many and with all. He repelled no one whom he believed to speak to him in good faith, and with patriotic purpose. No good advice would go unheeded. No candid criticism would offend him. It may truly be said that no man in power tried harder to direct his course in the right path, and no one ever tried harder to make our country a better place to live in.

No tribute could be paid Lincoln without mentioning the influences of his mother, Nancy Hanks, and his foster mother, Sarah Bush Lincoln, in his life. To Nancy Hanks we give credit for the teachings of his childhood. With her refined nature, superior intellect, marked character, and deep religious feeling, she shaped the life of the boy Abe so it could never be anything but what it became. We are all familiar with Lincoln's own words after he had become president, "All that I am or ever hope to be I owe to my angel mother." When Sarah Bush Johnson came into his life at the age of eight, she came as near taking the place of his own mother, as that place has ever been before for any child. She loved the children of Thomas Lincoln and gave to Abe, inspiration, guidance, and affection.

From whence came this man who, born in a log cabin, under the poorest of circumstances and with perhaps the least chance of any boy of his time, yet with a great power to ris of his own acord? Who as president, weighed down with cares of leading a divided people through the black clouds of war and hate, with such sympathy as to stop along the firing lines to pick up a motherless kitten lost in the confusion of an ever changing camp and bring it a saucer of milk. He was a president who when found polishing his boots in the basement of the White House by the aristocrat Charles Sumner who asked, "Why Mr. President, do you shine your own boots?" replied "Well, whose boots would I shine?" As God who, in creating a continent, uprises a mighty mountain range above the plains, and above the mountain reflects the light of the fleckless skies upon the craigs and plains below. The answer to, from whence came Lincoln, comes from God, who once in a century raises up a man whose towering personality rises above the common multitudes, who throng the hills and vales, as the mountain above its fellows; and for all time sheds the light of his achievments and his glory upon the world, to inspire even those who tread the humbler walks of life, that they in their sphere may make their lives sublime.

Our University is honored in bearing the name of this great man. No school in the land has higher honor so far as the name is concerned, for there has never been an American equal to Lincoln. It is our purpose to make this school a true living memorial to Lincoln in giving to the boys and girls of Lincoln's native state, Kentucky, inclusive of Virginia and Tennessee, a school that stands for the ideals of this man, who all the world recognizes as the greatest of Americans.

Buying of second grade materials at prices which appear low is deceptive and accomplishes only a temporary saving. Hhe best materials are best both in appearance and wearing qualities —and long wear is what counts in the end.

Our materials are guaranteed to be the best in every respect, and at prices you can afford. Come to us for advice on materials when you plan your new home.

LINCOLN'S WORDS GUIDE OUR BUSINESS POLICY

GUIDED by a code impaited to him by his mother, Abraham Lincoln throughout his public and private carrer carried the name of "Honest Abe." Unusual and many were the problems which befell the great emancipator in the course of his existence, but always guided by the cardinal principles of fair play towards all men, the backwoods lawyer emerged on the upper level.

It is the guidance and adherence to certain ethical proceedures which determine our existence this day. To follow in the footsteps of "Honest Abe" is indeed a worthy accomplishment, and one that we hold foremost as an asset of our business.

Though conditions change and methods of business practice often may invite a detour in the interest of greed, we celebrate the birthday of the great lover of mankind by pledging ourselves to continue in the righteous path which we have elected to follow.
